Since its beginnings in 1922—

and even back to its beginnings as the Old Settlers Association, founded in 1876—the Stevens County Historical Society has worked diligently to collect, preserve and offer educational exhibits and programming that interpret their vast collection of artwork, textiles and artifacts from those who lived on the glacially formed, tall grass, Minnesota prairie.

An extensive restoration and addition to the historic 1905 Carnegie Library building included an extensive open gallery area specifically designed for exhibition purposes. Local history, regional and national exhibits and programming have already attracted thousands of visitors each year since its completion in 2005. A very large percentage of the visitors to the museum during the two national Embroiders Guild of America, Through the Needle's Eye, and regionally juried Fantastic Fibers Exhibition were from outside of the Stevens County area.

Bill Holms' essay, Horizontal Grandeur is the inspiration for this juried fine art show be held in this beautiful setting for the fourth year in 2010.
